

If idiots had wings, this place
would be an airport.

LIFE RULES

Always choose friends who think you're funny

Never wear heels at a stamp convention.

IT'S WORTH DOING
IF IT'S WORTH DOING
IT'S WORTH DOING

Try something new at least once a year so you remember how a beginner feels.

Never keep a tin of cookies on a high shelf.
The exercise required to reach them could cause back problems.

Never stand sideways in family photos unless you are pregnant.

Always write journal entries in ink
so you're not tempted to revise them.

A messy desk is evidence of creativity.

When you're married, you'll understand the importance of fresh produce.

49031 13064

Shrug your shoulders as needed

Always make more soup than you need so friends can come for lunch.

Never engage in a battle of wits with an unarmed opponent.

Retell your past only if it's particularly juicy.

Organize your life in a series of folders.
Decorate the folders.

You can't have everything.
where would you put it?

Save the linings of envelopes
because you never know when they'll be useful.

Imperfect childhoods are no excuse.

Short hair adds 365 hours per year to your life.

Serve dessert on mismatched plates.

Creativity involves a lot of sorting things out.

Give your ideas time to incubate.

Listen to friends who think you look as good in a sweatshirt as you do in an evening gown.

Pretend that today is Christmas.

Never eat cookies during a sad movie.
Mascara and chocolate chips don't taste good together.

Fall in love without losing yourself.

Rules don't make sense unless you agree with them.

Never buy a plane ticket from a travel agent who wants to send you on a guilt trip.

Buy an extra pair of slippers when you find really comfy ones.

Take time to smell the carnations.
Roses have too many thorns.

Always keep postcards handy for waiting rooms and boring lectures.

Collect what interests you.

Risk a lot. Risk a little.

Never try to train a poodle.

Stamping isn't a competitive sport.

Buy yourself a cordless drill.

© 2002 JUDI WITH AN EYE

49031 Life Rules 2